Winter flight schedule 2026/2027: attractive new destinations

At EuroAirport, the new 2026/2027 winter flight schedule will come into effect on Sunday, October 25, 2026. Through March 27, 2027, 20 airlines will offer a total of 89 direct flights to 31 countries – primarily within Europe and to the Mediterranean region.

A wide range of direct flights and attractive connecting flights

The winter flight schedule includes destinations in Croatia, Cyprus, Denmark, Egypt, France, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Morocco, Portugal, Scotland, Spain, Tunisia and Turkey, among others. In addition, there are convenient connecting flights via the international hubs of Air France (Paris), Austrian Airlines (Vienna), British Airways (London), KLM (Amsterdam), Lufthansa (Frankfurt and Munich), AJET, Pegasus Airlines, and Turkish Airlines (Istanbul) as well as Vueling (Barcelona).

New destinations and expanded service on existing routes

Starting this winter season, EuroAirport will be offering new or resumed flight destinations: Poznań, Poland (3x/week), Varna, Bulgaria (2x/week), and Yerevan, Armenia (3x/week).

Other than easyJet, GP Aviation, and Chair Airlines, Wizz Air will now offer flights to Pristina as well. In addition, Wizz Air will add Naples to its route network in March 2027.

The number of flights will be increased on various flight routes, such as to Amsterdam, Bucharest, Lisbon, Marrakesh, Porto, Pristina and Skopje.

Preview of the 2027 summer flight schedule

As part of the summer flight schedule 2027, Air Canada will offer a new direct flight connection between EuroAirport and Montreal. Starting June 17, 2027, flights to the Canadian metropolis are scheduled to operate four times a week with an Airbus A321XLR. Air Canada is therefore completing Air Transat's existing flight offers. Via the Montreal hub, travellers may benefit from numerous connecting flights within Canada and to destinations in the USA.

Furthermore, starting in May 2027, easyJet will offer flight connections twice a week to the Italian island of Pantelleria, located southwest of Sicily. In addition, two more destinations – Sarajevo in Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as Tivat in Montenegro – will become part of the summer flight schedule 2027. Starting in May and June 2027, respectively, these routes will be operated twice a week.

Increased passenger comfort: extension of the Gates South zone

Starting in 2027, the boarding areas located within the Gates South zone will be extended. The purpose of the construction work is to create greater comfort and more space for passengers. Completion is scheduled for spring 2028. The project is part of EuroAirport's multi-year investment program, which calls for investments totalling 600 million euros over the next seven years.
